Central Marketing, Inc. has been servicing the tire industry for 40 years and we have built our reputation on service. Buying equipment is the easy part and only the first step. The installation, training, and after-sales support becomes the most important part of any purchase. When buying a piece of equipment that you will have for 15 to 20 years, you must deal with a company that has the parts and people to fix and maintain that equipment. CMI has 7 travelling technicians to support the equipment that we sell, plus we have over 6,000 active part numbers so when you need something, it is available now.
